

"Church Singing in Crisis Conditions"

We invite you to take part in the second Pan-European Orthodox Liturgical Music Conference, which will be held from 28 to 30 January 2021 online. The Conference will feature lectures by renowned international specialists in the field of choral singing and church-musicianship, workshops and group discussions. The focus this time will be on the difficulties of church singing during various historical crises, reflecting the current situation across the parishes and how it could be overcome.

The Conference will feature:

- ✓ Lectures by renowned international specialists in the field of choral singing and church-musicianship;
- ✓ Masterclasses will help participants to raise their own skill levels and clarify their concerns;
- ✓ Roundtables will give the opportunity to the conference participants to join in discussions of the most pressing issues facing today's churches.

The conference welcomes church choir conductors, singers, readers, and all others interested in Russian Orthodox choral music.

The price for participation varies from EUR 39 to EUR 79, depending on the number of days you have chosen (from 1 to 3). Online activities will take place on 28th and 29th of January from 2:00 pm to 9:30 pm and on 30th of January from 9:00 am to 3:00 pm Central European Time.

Conference registration is open until 24 January 2021. To register, it is required to fill out the form on the committee's website: www.aecmc.org
